

Echenberg Flies South; Laval Students Protest Brings Down Budget Possible Nationalization

by FONORA

The old adage about bad news travelling fast was proved a few hours ago when Gordon L. Echenberg, President of McGill's Students' Society, and the $80,000 he stole from his office vault were discovered in Tijuana, Mexico just 12 hours after both had disappeared.

The RCMP, brought in on the case to track down Echenberg, managed to trace him as far as Toronto, where it is believed he boarded a NCFUS flight to Tijuana — part of the AIESEC plan. Although the complete facts are not yet known, it is thought that the former student leader had plans to set up a tax-free organization for the purpose of competing with the Engineering Undergraduate Society.

Once he had crossed the border, Echenberg's trail was lost to Canadian law enforcers, but the Federal Bureau of Investigation was quick to enter the search. With all their best men on the job, they were able to trace their suspect immediately after he passed through Red Hook, a small town in upper New York State.

According to all reports, and a brief statement issued by Echen-berg following his capture, he was forced to hitch-hike as far as Minnesota before being able to cash the bonds he had made off with. From there, it was easy going, and Echenberg reverted to his inborn (Continued on page 2)

Withdraw Papers

Gordon And Krause Quit

by MICHAEL BLAU

Harold "Sonny" Gordon and David Krause withdrew their nominations papers for President of the Students' Society yesterday. In a joint statement to the Daily they said that "this has been such a clean campaign that we didn't want either one of us to be disappointed. Thus we won't run against each other."

Saeed Mirza, Chief Electoral Officer, said that because of the withdrawals the Vice-Presidential candidates will run for President.

PAT WILSON

The Women's Union candidates will contest the Vice-Presidents' position.

Upon hearing this, Gordon and Krause said that they didn't want to withdraw. Mirza said that it was too late. Thus they said that they would run for the only position open. — Women's Union president.

Krause said his platform would still be based on the slogan, "Time for a change". Gordon said that his slogan "A Man with Experience" would also remain. The two candidates for the Women's Union then glared at each other and walked out of the Union muttering. By a strange coincidence they both seemed to be walking in the direction of RVC.

Meanwhile the Vice-Presidential candidates on hearing that they would be running for the top position had varied reactions. Paul Bannerman said that he was willing and that he would campaign with vigah.

Bill Jones said that it is "Time for a change". We must take student politics away from the Faculty of Divinity to the Faculty of Music. Lawrence Leger said that his new platform would be based on "A Man with Experience".

The ex-Women's Union candidates said that they were thrilled with the prospect of running for

Vice-President. "This means that if we get elected that we get a room in the Union," they chorused. Upon thinking about this they decided that they would have to get a lock for the door. On second thought they decided against the first thought.

the Daily late last night, Claude Archambault, Editor-in-Chief of Le Carabin, Laval's student newspaper, said the proposal to nationalize the assets of the universities has aroused students to a fever pitch. Few plan to attend classes today, considering it more important to try to force the Provincial Government into making a formal statement on the issue, which has only been reported unofficially up to press time.

For the time being, Archambault, said, the only action taken has been in the form of protest marches outside the Parliament Buildings. However, Laval's Student Administrative Council is currently in session, and strong action is expected to be announced when they adjourn sometime around noon today.

Other universities around the Province have been slower to react in such obvious form simply because they are further away from Quebec City. But the wheels have been set in motion on most campuses to send representatives to Quebec to look the situation over firsthand. McGill's SEC has a meeting scheduled for this morning, but action will undoubtedly be delayed by the fact that Students' Society President Gordon Echenberg has left town.

It is expected that sentiment will be aroused on other campuses to the same extent as at Laval. Several student leaders have confidentially expressed the opinion that action taken may even be stronger than that of a few years ago, when combined university efforts were made to force the late

Hall In Quebec

Attention, pedestrians! Beware a gentleman clad in pink, by the name of Gus Hall, who crossed the U.S. border to reside in Canada, a nation whose "arms" are always neutral.

The kindly gentleman, secretary of the Communist Party in the U.S., suffering from an acute inferiority complex, decided to leave the country and take up residence in Quebec, where rumour had it that he would have an overwhelming support.

He was last seen stomping through the snowdrifts on La Rue Rouge, cursing that some character called Caouette sold him a car with no motor.

Irwin Cotler Deserts Daily; Becomes A Real Politician

by The Grateful Daily Staff

Irwin Cotler, Editor-in-Chief of the Daily, resigned his post yesterday to accept the Social Credit nomination in Westmount-St. George.

Cotler's candidacy is believed to have stemmed from his recent representation on a panel discussing "Anti-Semitism." Sacred Leader Caouette, in Montreal at the time, drafted Cotler immediately after the meeting, because, as he put it, Cotler's remarks reflected "strong feelings about Hitler and Mussolini."

Other factors, however, were said to have influenced his candidacy. Both Cotler's editorials and his oratory have never been inhibited by either "knowledge, ethics, or consistency," and his schizophrenic editorial policy on nuclear weapons fitted in well with the Thompson-Caouette views on the question.

His predilection for monopoly, as well as his skill at it though he does not understand it, his platform for nationalizing Boardwalk and Park Place, and the fact that he has the only bilingual game in existence also weighed heavily in the decision.

Another important criterion determining Cotler's candidacy was his prosperity and adaptability to Sacred economic planning. Cotler, who had difficulty passing his undergraduate economic courses, has a fortunate proximity to typewriters, and his immediate access to and control of, a printing press made the Sacred economic theory of "one man with a printing machine" a practical reality.

Queried about his candidacy, Cotler had this to say: "I think the factor that influenced the Sacred most was my profession — I sell used cars."

Library Blows Up

Rumours that there was no bomb in the Library were proven false early this morning, when it exploded, destroying most of the building. No one was hurt, but some 9,000 students will no longer be able to study for the exams. Well, you can't pass them all.

James Reston Is New Daily Editor

by ROBERT PRINSKY

Sometime Newsfeatures Editor

James "Scotty" Reston, former Cub Reporter for The New York Times, has been named Editor-in-Chief of the McGill Daily for the next academic year. He will be entering the new School of Journalism which opens in the fall.

Contacted in his Manhattan penthouse, Reston told this reporter that he felt it was the duty of every unemployed person to take some kind of technical training so that he can get a job and become a better citizen.

Having had an interest in Journalism "ever since I was a kid", he thought that J-School might be a good idea.

As is commonly known, a large number of New York newspaper reporters have recently become unemployed for reasons which do not appear to be entirely obvious, especially to their publishers.

Reston's gap will be a large one, but it is this very factor that decided his coming to McGill. To replace him, the Daily has offered to send the Times ten of its top men.

Irwin Cotler and Joseph Oliver will become Court Reporters for the Times. Bill Hersh and Garth Stevenson will serve as correspondents with the Food and Drug Administration and Interstate Commerce Commission respectively.

Six senior editors on the Daily, who were not named in the agreement, will be used to bolster the Times' bench strength of its softball team, which has won the New York Newspapers Ladies Softball League championship for the past six years.

All Daily staffers involved in the agreement must pass their year or the deal is off. Reston must pass the Mississippi Standard Literacy Test.

Vote Social Credit

This being a mongrel editorial, we feel that this paper can take a stand regarding the parties in the forthcoming election. After due consideration of the relative merits involved, we feel that the only party worthy of support is the Social Credit. Witness its platform.

It is the only party which has a nuclear weapons policy that can be endorsed by all. It both rejects and accepts nuclear weapons and its policy is governed by the policy that should govern it.

It is the only party that guarantees the electorate a guarantee of a per capita subsidy, and is backed up by all the machinery necessary to print it.

It is the only party that promises to rewrite the Canadian promise — so that Quebec can be in or out of Confederation at the same time; for the B.N.A. Act will be such that it will render itself liable to either interpretation.

It is the only party where no one will be discriminated against because he does not have the education or knowledge and where lack of it is a political asset.

Finally, and most important, it is the only party which has committed itself to adopting as our national insignia the shaggy dog — in the true mongrel tradition.

Echenberg...

nature of a well-heeled student politician, travelling by USAF jet trainer which he rented from the government.

Effects

The effects of this episode on the image of the Students' Society are still reverberating around Campus, and student leaders from all organizations will be meeting today in order to decide whether their former leader should be turned on the mercy of public justice, or suffer the moral ethics of McGill's Scarlet Key Society.

Echenberg was found in a small hotel on the south side of Tijuana after a Mexican stool pigeon tipped-off undercover agents from the FBI. It is reported that when found, he was hiding under the bed, clutching his ill-begotten wealth.

Dragged from his room, the quaking criminal was brought before a Justice of the Peace who immediately performed the necessary extradition steps before sending his charge off to Canada.

Met at the airport by representatives of McGill's SEC and Canadian government officials, Echenberg issued a brief statement. He declared himself completely innocent, stating that he was perfectly justified since Mrs. Hempey, the SEC bookkeeper, had consistently refused to pay him for his extraordinary efforts on behalf of all McGill students.

Lawyer Talks

Echenberg's lawyer, O. J. Oliver, in a press release to the Daily, declared that he would defend his client as long as Echenberg was able to pay the exorbitant fees.

Vice-President of the Students' Society Peter King appeared to be dumbfounded by the happenings of the past twenty-four hours and was heard to mention to a confidant "I would like to run him through with my epee, but I think he took that too."

And so, as the Campus waits expectantly for the outcome of this, the biggest scandal to hit McGill since Stuart Smith passed the 65% rule, many questions arise concerning the welfare of the whole University.

Will Echenberg be impeached? Are there sufficient funds now available to complete the New Union? Will the SEC resign in protest? Will the combination of the Students' Society vault have to be changed, and who should be entrusted with its workings? Will NFCUS discontinue its AIESEC flights to Tijuana? And will the Supreme Court choose student jurists if the case should come to trial?

Only God and the President of the Students' Society know.

Excerpts From Canadian University Press

by

EVE COUPLAND

Across Canada new organizations are springing up in all of our forty-nine universities. Perhaps the one that has caused the greatest controversy is WICK. These well-known initials are inflaming students and officials across the country...

THE VARSITY (TORONTO)

At the University of Toronto students are picketing in favour of WICK. Apparently Yonge street was blocked for six hours as students marched through the city bearing placards which proclaimed WICK IS ALL, WE WANT WICK, and FLEMING COME HOME, ALL IS FORGIVEN.

As J. Sullivan, Student President of the University was heard to say: "At last apathetic students have been inspired to act. It is about time that students showed the community around them that they too have a vested interest in WICK".

THE SHEAF (SASKATOON)

An editorial in the University of Saskatchewan's paper lashed out last week against the provincial government's attempt to socialize WICK.

"WICK is the last and most justifiable area of free enterprise. The government has outgrown its usefulness to society in its attempts to usurp the very tenets of freedom..."

THE UBYSEY (VANCOUVER)

In Vancouver, the students have threatened to join the Freedomite movement so that they may be free to erect WICK within city limits. A petition containing over eight-thousand student signatures was forwarded to the administration of the university demanding that:

"Students must be free to reside where they wish... The protection of WICK is essential in these troubled times. Only WICK can solve the Doukhovor problem."

LE CARABIN (QUEBEC)

From Laval University an editorial proclaimed:

"Attendu que les étudiants universitaires représentent une catégorie importante de l'élite intellectuelle et professionnelle de KCIW... Attendu qu'une association étudiante a le devoir de protéger et de défendre les intérêts de ses membres quand ses intérêts sont menacés... IL EST PROPOSE Que le Grand Conseil de l'Association Générale des Etudiants de l'Université Laval vote une motion pour KCIW..."

THE XAVIERIAN WEEKLY

And at the University of St. Francis of Xavier university students are holding a top-level seminar in honour of WICK. An editorial stated:

"We owe it to ourselves, to the world and to each other to gather in praise of and in study of the nobility and inherent possibilities of WICK."

So from coast to coast WICK is all. WICK saves. And as Grand WICK stated in his last inspiring book: "Tra-la-la-la-la-la-la-la, I don't know what'll happen tomorrow."

Gourmets Agreed; Prefer Grill Room

by LISA BORENSTEIN

Word reached campus yesterday evening, from reliable press sources, that the Union Grill Room, favorite eating place of McGillians, is to be presented with the Duncan Hines Gourmet Award for the year 1962-63, in merit of its original menu and congenial atmosphere.

The award, a skillet — shaped plaque, is one that is highly prized by Restauranters across the continent, and the recipients are looked upon with reverence and envy by their less-fortunate counterparts.

This year the judges of the competition — whose names can not be divulged due to fears of food-poisoning — were two gentlemen who occupy extremely high places in the McGill vicinity, and whose taste buds have been acutely developed through years of dining at top restaurants, and sponging at the homes of friends with mothers or wives whose cuisine is — to sum it up briefly — "just like Mother used to make".

These discriminating personalities, when asked why they chose the Union Grill Room as the top eating spot for hard-to-please-gourmets, came up with the following undebatable answers:

Said Judge No. 1, (Bleah as he chose to be called), "We have picked the Grill Room above all restaurants because we sincerely feel that it can not be compared to any other eating place on this continent. The menu the students are offered is truly phenomenal. My companion and I were particularly impressed by the originality of the Grill Room creations. The chef has come up with a sandwich idea which is sure to rocket to fame.

"He calls it 'oeuf-sprème au snap, crackle et pop', and through my cunning I tricked him to divulging the secret of its remarkable flavour. Apparently he takes two hard dry pieces of bread, and smears them with fresh butter.

He then adds a scrumptious filling, made of 4 parts mayonnaise, 1/2 part egg, (and here comes the all-important ingredient), 1/2 part shell. Thus the gourmet is presented with a dish which is not only pleasing to his highly developed taste, but also provides a healthy exercise for his teeth, and sweet music to his ear.

Judge No. 2, whom we shall call Gaston to insert some biculturalism into this article, and since he expressed the exalted desire of being called by this "Cuisinier's" title, added to the above statement, that the Grill Room had been chosen on the basis of its popularity.

"We place a great deal of faith in the McGill students taste-buds, and they all flock to the Grill-Room. This gourmets' choice is always filled by distinguished campus personages, including politicians, journalists, and intellectuals. Surely all these people can't be crazy!

"Besides," declared Gaston, "as my partner and I are staunch members of the Temperance League, our list of eligible restaurants had to be greatly narrowed to include only those which serve non-alcoholic beverages.

The Union Grill Room was the most non-alcoholic place we could find".

Gala Nudist Convention To Be Held At McGill

by BONNIE STERN

In keeping with its progressive attitude on life and love and things, McGill has offered its facilities for the Young People's Nudist Colony Convention. The convention will be held in the Union Ballroom throughout this coming week.

Nudists from all over Canada will arrive here this evening on a CNR Nudist Special at 6 pm. (Meet the train and say hello, heh, heh). Weather permitting, they will stage a procession from the station to the Union where festivities will commence at full swing. To start the evening off with a bang, a Twist Contest will be held tonight, with all the gals and gents swaying to the rhythm of the Swinging Nude Quartet.

Tomorrow at lunchtime, a panel discussion will be held. I.M. Bair will chair the debate — the subject of which will be "That Natural Look." In the evening, Dr. U.R. Newde, a prominent psychologist, will address the delegates — his topic — "Do Clothes Stifle the Physical Development of an Individual?"

Fun And Games

Thursday's activities will commence with a Beauty Contest — contestants of which will be judged not only at face value, but along other points as well. The evening will feature a Games Night during which all sorts of interesting games will be played.

Friday afternoon a medical student will discuss "The Finer Features of Anatomy", using live specimens to illustrate his points.

The closing event of the convention will be a Mixer — an informal dance to which all are cordially invited. Dress is casual — girls may wear hankies; boys can sport a tie.

In addition to the forementioned events, an exhibit will be open to the general public in the Walter M. Stewart Room every afternoon from 12-5 pm. The general theme of this exhibit is to familiarize the students with the wiles and ways of the Nudist Colony — in the hope of interesting some individuals to join. "You too, can become a nudist. Send no money — ten day trial period. Satisfaction guaranteed or your clothes back!"

A limited number of spectators will be allowed onto the Ballroom balcony to watch the festivities. An overwhelming display of interest and enthusiasm has already been displayed by McGillians. P. Boris King commented on the situation: "We have had an African Week, an Asian Week, and a West Indian Week, but the response of the students to Nudist Week has never been so great. It is about time that the student body has been aroused — from its apathy, I mean," he added.

Biology Bldg. Burns; Students Under Fire For Possible Arson

by MARSHA STERN

It was a sad day for McGill's frustrated biologists when they learned that at 4:30 am today their beloved building burned down to rubble and ashes.

It was with a heavy heart that Building Superintendent J. Pollock announced that classes would be suspended indefinitely, or until further notice.

One of the lasting effects of the fire will be the constant appearance of frogs and other laboratory animals, since a majority of them managed to escape before the height of the blaze. The local feline population will not feel the effects of the government austerity plan, seeing that five barrels of preserved perch were left for their consumption.

John Stanley, Chairman of the Biological Sciences Group, told the Daily that the various Chairmen of the Department will be issuing statements concerning their courses. However, Prof. J. Boyes of the Department of Genetics, has said that practical work will continue as usual.

Speculation as to the cause of the fire has led those in the know to point the finger of suspicion at everyone who has a class in Room 250, the main lecture theatre. One of those involved said that he wouldn't dream of being an arsonist, much less since it concerns his favorite classroom, Room 250.

BEWLEY QUILTS REDMEN

Bill Bewley, who in his first year with the McGill Football Redmen brought the Yates Cup back to McGill, has resigned as Head Coach. Bewley's announcement followed on the heels of Athletics' Director Harry Griffiths' statement concerning McGill football scholarships.

Bewley told the Daily in a private interview yesterday, "There has to be some dividing line between amateurism and professionalism in sport. The Athletic's Board's decision has made a mockery of McGill's amateur status in football. I have absolutely no desire to coach professional sport and to develop an active ulcer at a tender age. I have therefore decided to leave the job."

Bewley's decision put a serious kink into the Redmen's plans for next season. Griffiths was somewhat indignant at the coaches' announcement. "We have never wanted anything but the best for our boys. If Bewley doesn't have the faith in himself that is so necessary to do a good job, it is just as well that he spoke up now. Under the latest circumstances, I'm sure I speak for all concerned when I say 'We don't want him!'"

A scant twenty minutes after Bewley's statement, Griffiths announced that McGill had engaged the services of Perry Moss. Moss was signed to a three year, no cut contract. He has been freelancing for the past month.

Roses Are Red, Violets Are Blue

In a press conference late yesterday, our Sports Editor went down and put forth a question concerning the proposed football match here at McGill.

The President answered saying "I want to say this about that. I have conferred with my brothers and my colleagues and I feel that the present situation in the State of Quebec is as too volatile to risk a visit to that country. We feel that we would be endangering the internal security of our great nation if we were to endeavour to undertake such activity in this hostile area of this great continent."

I have made an offer to Senator Goldwater to organize a group of his supporters to replace us in this excursion to this strife torn region but he has turned it down and thus will not be to undertake this mission with ah viggah".

This refusal by the White House Touchfootball team however has not dampened our spirit. Kremlin, pass the pigskin, Davarsich?

The Pause That Refreshes

by THE EARL OF HALTRECHT

We done dood it!!! Being inspired by the warm canary yellow tones of the William Melville Spencer Memorial (Cess) pool at the University of Western Ontario where all good mustangs gather, the McGill aquanauts broke another world record on their 25-minute return flight from one hogtown to another.

The record, by the way, was that of consuming 688 Dixie cups of lemonade. To add to their supreme glory, the team, dehydrated from their tournament, accomplished this amazing feat without the services of their five most experienced drinkers.

The squad's salubriously ultra-septic (and cute) coach, Bob Gauld, refrained from joining in because his mother wouldn't approve. Leo V-john, hero, had had too much to imbibe that afternoon and second year Med student Jay Lee was engrossed in his study of anatomy (TCA stewardesses seemed to meet his specifications).

Pete Cameron, afraid of drowning, was another abstainer. Nils Olaf Q. Vikander preferred to drink yak's milk. We finally convinced Coach Robert Gauld to help us break the record, so he finally asked the stewardess for some, but she refused to give...

It really seems that the team is chalking them up these days — Bill Peers just told me that he almost broke the world's record in the 500-yard dogpaddle, only to be beaten out by Lassie. His time was clocked to the shape of 36:24:36. Speaking of shape, Dave McEntyre was in not too good a one. He broke another record, or perhaps a bag, barfing 5 times in 10 minutes.

The following Sunday TCA recovered its wings and took flight straight at the Daily. TCA greatly dismayed at the wreckage of flight 704, issued a special report: "Due to the mess and disturbance caused on board flight 704, we will not carry any more McGill sports to their destinations — destiny, perhaps, but not destination. In particular, from now on we will only serve liquor on our flights (for increased altitude) and no more lemonade. Furthermore, your man Dave McEntyre owes us $5 for using five 'barf' bags (the ones marked 'in here slob') during the 25-minute flight."

Not only was there devastation of property but of morals, too. It was quite naughty of the coach to bring Playboy on board, and especially letting little Donny Henderson read it (He's so sweet and innocent — keep him that way). We also appreciate the fact that Med student Jay Lee had to study anatomy, but couldn't he use the book instead of doing it "by Braille"?

Premier Duplessis to accept federal offers of grants to students.

A tentative meeting has been set up between the editors of the provinces student newspapers to consider publication of "The Quebec Student", a joint publication of all Quebec universities, which last appeared in 1959, and previously the year before, when the entire student population of the Province went on strike to protest the grants situation.

Officials of university administrations are currently meeting to discuss the situation but no statements have been issued as yet.

Students at McGill will be kept up to date on the situation through the Daily. Details of future SEC plans will be in tomorrow's edition.

The Engineering LOWER YEAR COUNCIL takes pleasure in inviting members from ALL FACULTIES, undergraduates and graduates, to a lecture on:

PROJECT HARP

Tuesday, February 26, 1963

1-2 pm PSCA

DEAN MORDELL and PROFESSOR BULL

will show coloured movies from Barbados and speak about the whole project in general terms.

This should be a very informative and interesting hour.
